Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1,2, 4-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1,2,5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sandberg et al (US 20020001056).

Sandberg et al discloses (Fig. 6A) An active component array substrate (2, abstract); a pixel electrode layer (4), disposed over the active component array substrate (2); an opposite substrate (10), disposed opposite to the active component array substrate (2); A common electrode layer (12), disposed over the opposite substrate (10); Two inorganic alignment films (14,8, Page 7, [0082]), disposed over the pixel electrode layer (4) and the common electrode layer (12) respectively; and Sandberg et al discloses that a nematic liquid crystal with pleochroic dye which is a negative dielectric anisotropic liquid crystal layer (18 (Page 1, [0015]) could be used disposed between the two inorganic alignments films (14,8), and aligned parallel to the inorganic alignment films. Regarding Claim 2, The active component array substrate comprises a thin film transistor array substrate (Page 1, [0017]). Regarding Claim 5, A material of the inorganic alignment film comprises silicon oxide (Page 7, [0082]).

Regarding Claim 7, A material of the common electrode layer comprises indium tin oxide (Page 7, [0089]).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 4, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sandberg et al (US 20020001056) in view of Hachisu et al (US 20020113928).

Sandberg discloses everything disclosed above.

Sandberg does not disclose specifically using a ferro-electric liquid crystal layer.

Hachisu et al discloses (Page 1, [0009]) the negative dielectric anisotropic liquid crystal layer such as a ferro-electric liquid crystal layer to provide spontaneous polarization and thus demonstrates a very fast response speed thus providing excellent viewing angle characteristics.

It is obvious to one skilled in the art to provide a negative dielectric anisotropic liquid crystal layer such as a ferro-electric liquid crystal layer of Hachisu et al to provide spontaneous polarization and thus demonstrates a very fast response speed thus providing excellent viewing angle characteristics (Page 1, [0009]) to the liquid crystal of Sandberg's display.

Claim 6 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sandberg et al (US 20020001056) in view of Kawasaki (US 5082353).

Regarding Claim 6,

Sandberg et al does not disclose the opposite substrate comprises a color filter substrate.

Kawasaki discloses (Column 5, rows 47-50) the opposite substrate comprises a color filter substrate to achieve a color display with a high color-reproducibility and in a high image contrast.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skilled in the art to modify Sandberg et al to include Kawasaki's color filter motivated by the desire to achieve a color display with a high color-reproducibility and in a high image contrast (Column 5, rows 47-50).
